

IHTP CODE OF ETHICS

*Students in the IHTP Program must follow the professional ethics of certified practitioners/peers.
Please read, sign and upload this document to your mentor.*

As a recipient of the International Harp Therapy Program (IHTP) Certificate, or as a current student in the IHTP Program:

I agree to foster trust, ensure confidentiality, and show respect.

I will never knowingly misrepresent the extent of my professional training.

I believe in the dignity and worth of every person and respect the rights of others to hold values and opinions that differ from my own. I will establish and maintain high standards and strive to give my best.

I will not discriminate in professional relationships because of race, ethnicity, language, religion, marital status, gender, sexual orientation, age, ability, socio-economic status or political affiliation. I will maintain professional confidentiality as defined by IHTP course instructors.

As a Certified Therapeutic Harp Practitioner (CTHP), I will observe the regulations, policies, and procedures of my employers.

I will strive to increase my own knowledge and skills, and will do my best to stay abreast of current research within the profession.

I have met and will adhere to the standards of the International Harp Therapy Program. I will participate in professional development gatherings and conferences for continuing education purposes.

As a CTHP, I will act in a professional manner at all times, and will represent to the best of my ability my profession and myself. I will give credit to the instructors of the International Harp Therapy Program for their expertise and gifts.

I will maintain the IHTP Honor Code, and respect the copyrighted materials of the IHTP. I will not provide materials from this program, electronically, or by print, to anyone outside of the program.

I will engage in a program of self-care to maintain myself physically and emotionally to assure that I am at my best when working as a Certified Therapeutic Harp Practitioner.
